

“Transforming talented leaders into agile, authentic and well-rounded communicators of the digital age”

We are The Leadership Speaking School, industry leaders in the field of leadership communication and the speaking arts, and we’ve been training and coaching leaders and teams for more than 16 years around the world. We specialize in supporting leaders to develop into communicators who speak with impact, authenticity and human connection to their peers, teams and stakeholders.

We focus on teaching the craft of how to create compelling content and how to deliver it with gravitas and impact that lasts. Our programs transform talented leaders into agile, resilient and well-rounded communicators who can thrive when speaking in front of diverse audience across multiple platforms, both live and online.

The Harvard Business Review and the McKinsey consultancy company have regularly shared that most leadership development programs fail because they are missing two vital components:

1. Relevance to everyday workplace situations

Teaching generic concepts separated from the realities of day-to-day operations makes it difficult to see how to apply what’s been taught to everyday workplace scenarios

2. Follow-up to reinforce learning

80% of what is covered in training programs is often forgotten within a few days

We address both of these issues in our training solutions, and include 1:1 coaching as part of our Signature Program called CORE. Participants rewire, relearn and reset themselves as communicators, using the powerful hands-on tools in The Leadership Speaking Toolbox. The result: Leaders with executive presence who project confidence and authenticity when they speak to their diverse audiences and who enjoy the act of speaking to others, because “communication is supposed to feel good”.